THE EVENT

This year's event focuses on the diverse independent product marketplace. The Summit also offers a conference program featuring: the current trends in video entertainment consumption; the growth, challenges and opportunities for OTT Channels; and the latest efficiencies and reporting standards within the digital supply chain.

The Summit is for all those providing filmed entertainment content, the retailing or distributing of entertainment product; and the industry's service, support and technology providers.

Be part of this year's event so you can attend the conference and a variety of social events to network with key retailers, distributors, independent studios, OTT Channels providers, ancillary product manufacturers, service providers and new technology companies.
